Compulsory Question. Case Study.

18. Mr. Rajesh is from a middle class family and his father owns a grocery shop in his village. After graduating in science he finalized to start a small sized biscuit manufacturing unit. His financial capacity was not so sound. The machinery supplier quoted a price of Rs. 7 lakhs for the plant. Though the plant is being locally manufactured, it has already proved its technical capability.

Rajesh was confident he could sell his products at competitive prices in local area within a radius of 5 kms in which there are many villages/towns. He knew that branded biscuits from bigger companies are in the market. But still he was confident that he could compete on the price front and could take a market share. He mobilized 3 lakhs from his savings and availed a loan of 5 lakhs from his close friends and relatives and set up the unit. He promised his creditors 15% interest per annum which is about 3% higher than prevailing bank rate. He did not approach any bank as he was afraid of procedural delays.

Comment on the project proposal of Mr. Rajesh.
